

MASSED GERMAN BOMBING PLANES UNLEASH TERRIFIC AERIAL ATTACK UPON AMSTERDAM AIRPORT

Cargoes of Heavy Calibre Bombs Dropped Upon the Flying Field and Surrounding Buildings—Belgian Troops Appear To Be Holding Back Invading Nazi Legions—British Planes Destroy 60 German Troop Transport Planes

AMSTERDAM, May 11—Massed German bombing planes unleashed a terrific aerial attack upon the Amsterdam Airport today, dropping cargoes of heavy calibre bombs upon the flying field and surrounding buildings.

At the same time Dutch forces appeared to be holding the German invaders in check along the 250-mile Dutch front.

The latest Dutch communique announced that Holland's small but efficient air force is remaining continuously on duty.

Foreign observers expressed belief that German troops had nowhere penetrated more than 13 miles into Dutch territory.

The German aerial attack upon Amsterdam came in two waves separated by only a few minutes.

The assault ended one of the most disquieting nights in the city's history, terrifying residents who had retired in the belief they might be subjected to raids.

At 2 a. m. the drone of a single German plane was heard above the clouds. Search-lights pierced the sky, seeking to locate the plane, but it escaped.

Other planes were heard occasionally during the night, accompanied by bursts of firing.

Finally at 6 a. m. came the sound of deep thuds, indicating heavy bombs were dropping. Buildings shook and sirens wailed as inhabitants of Amsterdam hurried to air raid shelters.

BRUSSELS, May 11—(INS)—Belgium's valiant troops still appeared to be holding back the invading Nazi legions today, according to latest reports reaching Brussels.

According to these advices, the Belgian defense forces are still holding their "lines of destruction" considerably in advance of the main Belgian lines of defense.

German warplanes were extremely active over both Belgium and Holland, however.

According to the Brussels radio, nine Junkers planes were sighted over Namur shortly after 5 a. m.

They were followed some time later by groups of 19 and 21 Messerschmidt fighting planes. Twenty-one Dornier planes were sighted over another Belgian town.

LONDON, May 11—(INS)—A Reuters dispatch from Amsterdam today said it was rumored that Dutch sappers have blown up the radio station at Kootwijk in the province of Gelderland to prevent it from falling into German hands.

LONDON, May 11—British aerial attacks which destroyed at least 60 German troop transport planes in Holland were announced by the British Air Ministry today as advices from Amsterdam indicated Dutch troops were holding up the Nazi military machine.

According to the Air Ministry, Royal Air Force planes bombed and destroyed the German planes at the Rotterdam Airport and on a beach near the Hague.

The raids were carried out so quickly after the Germans had occupied the landing grounds that the Germans had no time to establish anti-aircraft defenses.

At the same time a War Office communique announced:

"Leading elements of the British Expeditionary Force in co-operation with the French Army have entered Belgium. They were accorded a great welcome by the Belgian people."

Free Lots Offered For Sellersville Sample Homes

SELLERSVILLE, May 11—To further stimulate the building of new homes in Sellersville, borough council at its meeting this week offered two free lots to J. S. Kulp & Company, of Telford, to build sample homes. The firm requested previously that a water main be laid in the south end of the borough along a tract shown on the map as Ridge avenue. Council found also that the street will have to be improved, and that water line will cost $7,000. This will not include the cost of repairs to the street, the establishment of grade lines and other incidentals.

Later the firm from Telford requested that the line be laid to only one of the sample homes, and this, it was found, would cost about $2500.

Council had another similar request from the other end of the borough, and this was rejected a month ago. Council felt that it would not be practical to lay water lines at either of these points but instead it offered the Telford firm two lots free of charge to build sample houses.

BUCKS COUNTY JUDGE TO RECEIVE DEGREE

Judge Keller To Be Made Doctor of Laws by The Muhlenberg College

ON BENCH SINCE 1929

DOYLESTOWN, May 11—President Judge Hiram H. Keller's distinguished record as a lawyer and jurist will be recognized by Muhlenberg College when it confers upon him the honorary degree of Doctor of Laws at the 73rd annual commencement of the college to be held at Allentown, Monday, June 3.

The well known Bucks county jurist, on the bench since March 26, 1929, has been President Judge of the Bucks county courts since 1930. In 1939 he was re-elected without opposition for another 10-year term.

Other honorary degrees to be conferred by Muhlenberg include the Doctor of Letters award to Hendrik Willem van Loon, one of America's most distinguished men of letters who will be the commencement speaker; Doctor of Humane Letters to Dr. Frederick H. Knobel, president of the United Lutheran Church in America, who will preach the baccalaureate sermon on

Plan Campaign For Funds For Quakertown Hospital

QUAKERTOWN, May 11—A campaign for funds, starting June 12th and ending on the 26th of June, has been announced by the board of directors of Quakertown Community Hospital.

The general chairman is C. William Freed, president of the hospital, who states:

"When we put on our campaign in 1936 we promised the people of the community that we would solicit no further contributions for a period of three years. We have kept that promise. It is now four years since that and for the last year we have again been accumulating a deficit."

The free service which the hospital gives at the present time amounts to approximately $16,000 a year. Of this amount the State and county appropriate $6,500. This leaves a deficit of nearly $10,000 a year.

The campaign goal this year is $35,000. The present deficit is $10,000, and an additional $10,000 will be needed to cover the next year. The remaining $15,000 is needed to purchase new equipment and to replace equipment which has been worn out after ten years of service.

Probe Blast at Arsenal Which Killed One Man

PHILADELPHIA, May 11—(INS)—A board of inquiry today began an investigation of a blast which killed one man and seriously injured another in the Frankford Arsenal, giant government arms manufactory in the north-east section of Philadelphia.

With a roar heard over a wide area in the city and across the Delaware River in New Jersey, the explosion ripped off the door and blew out windows of a brick building in the closely guarded munitions center.

The dead man was Walter Ozimek, who died shortly after the blast. Neal McDonald, the injured man, was taken to Frankford Hospital in an unconscious condition.

While arsenal authorities clamped down a strict military censorship immediately, it was learned that both Ozimek and McDonald were working in one section of the damaged building. Five others in the building escaped injury.

"There is absolutely no evidence of sabotage—in fact, we're sure that no sabotage was involved," asserted Capt. J. C. Raen, commandant's adjutant. He characterized the explosion as a "minor one."

The explosion revived a feud between Federal and Philadelphia County authorities when Deputy Coroner Bernard Dugan and a detective were denied permission to investigate on grounds that the incident was purely a local one.

The victims are Bruno Polanski, 22, and Sergeant Edward Shapiro, 42, both of Camden, and George Lane, 39, of Gloucester Heights.

Two Junk Yards Are Eyesores

(By "The Stroller")

It would appear as though something should be done to prohibit the growth of junk yards within the borough limits. Along the highway, south of Mill street, two or three junk yards have begun to sprout and it will not be long before they will become full grown.

The two in question are just in their infancy now, but unless they are nipped in the bud they will have become fully sprouted, and just like the blossoms at this time of year, go on and mature into full-grown junk heaps.

HULMEVILLE

Mr. and Mrs. Earl Phipps, Mrs. Raymond Vornhold, Hulmeville; and Mrs. Felson, Bristol, were in attendance Thursday at the Athletics-St. Louis baseball game in Philadelphia.

Members of the Methodist Junior League participated in a roast, and an evening of games on Thursday at the rear of the church. The affair was in charge of the Junior League superintendent, Miss Adeline E. Reetz. Other adults aiding were Miss Grace H. Illick and the Rev. Wilmer E. Harkness.

A number of students of Langhorne-Middletown high school from this borough, accompanied the high school classes on a "doggie" roast to Washington Crossing last evening.

Dutch Recapture Airport

Amsterdam, May 11—Germany's blitzkrieg occupation of the Netherlands ended in failure today, when Dutch troops aided by the British Royal Air Force recaptured the Rotterdam airport. Holland's last base remaining in German hands.

At the same time, a swift and efficient Dutch division annihilated the Germans who had landed by plane, parachute, and flat bottomed boats on the island of Dordrecht, southeast of Rotterdam.

The Dutch themselves lost 1,000 men in this battle, but emerged victorious with Rotterdam again safe and the German foothold in western Holland loosened.

News of Hitler's latest successes reached Amsterdam coincident with a terrific new air attack on Amsterdam's airport in which cargoes of heavy caliber bombs were dropped on the flying field.

Together with the striking news from Rotterdam it was asserted definitely that Queen Wilhelmina's capital, the Hague, remains in Dutch hands.

Germans "Elated"

Berlin, May 11—German successes in the Western front offensive exceed all expectations it was stated in the Nazi military circles today.

Reports received in Berlin give general satisfaction to the high command. The penetration of Holland, Belgium, and Luxembourg was hailed as representative of the striking power of the Nazi forces.

According to authoritative sources the last 24 hours have witnessed the greatest employment of air forces, in history. "With waves of planes systematically raining thousands of bombs upon allied military objectives with the aim of paralyzing the enemy in its vital point."

According to first reports, serious crippling of allied air ports and railroad junctions "is already an established fact."

Blaze Damages Building Which Was Being Razed

Fire last night nearly completed the total destruction of a building which a number of years ago was used as a fire station by Beaver Fire Co., No. 4. It is located along the alleyway between Garden and Manson streets and in the rear of the present fire station of Beaver Fire Co., No. 4.

In the opinion of Fire Chief Hagerman the place was set afire as he says there was evidence of oil or gasoline having been liberally used.

The building, a one story structure was ablaze from end to end and the flames were held down by a tin roof. Bristol Consolidated Fire Department responded to an alarm sounded at 10:53 p. m., and remained at the scene for an hour.

The heat was intense and the firemen were afraid nearby buildings might be scorched, but they escaped.

The building was being demolished and the interior, which was wainscoted, had been removed and the balance of the structure was to be razed.

Red Cross Pleads For Funds To Alleviate War Suffering

"Never before in the history of civilization has such distress existed in the countries of Europe," state representatives of the Red Cross. "For today nation is pitted against nation, and in the wake of their warfare women and children, and helpless old people are suffering as never before."

The national chairman of the Red Cross, Norman Davis, Washington, D. C., is calling for a fund of 10 million dollars, to be used to alleviate the frightful suffering that is always the result of war. Of this amount the Southeastern Chapter of which Bristol is a part, is apportioned $750,000, as its part in helping the suffering masses.

Contributions may be sent to the chairman of Bristol Branch, Mrs. William DuFall, 807 Radcliffe street, or to the Southeastern Chapter of the Red Cross, 511 N. Broad street, Philadelphia.

Woman and Man Hurt; Driver Is Arrested As Intoxicated

A woman and a man were slightly injured in an early morning crash in Bensalem Township, today, the man being arrested on a charge of operating a car while intoxicated.

The one taken into custody by officer Erdman of Oxford Valley barracks, is Montell C. Williams, Midland avenue, Kearney, N. J. After treatment by a Morrisville physician for cuts about the nose, Williams was given a hearing before officer Cooper, of Langhorne, at which time he was held for court.

The second car was operated by Michael J. Binsfeld, E. Willard street, Philadelphia. Mrs. Binsfeld, wife of the driver, was treated at Parkland station of Bucks County Rescue Squad, for cuts on the knee and abrasions of the forehead.

The accident occurred on Brownsville Road, at 119 a. m. It being stated that Williams' machine was being operated in the middle of the thoroughfare. The cars, travelling in opposite directions were slightly damaged.

MOTHER'S DAY RECOGNITION

People ask what is the most appropriate gift for Mother's Day. Any gift that manifests love is appropriate. A mother is keenly anxious for the affection of her children, but they, whether young or grown up, are apt to be so engrossed in their own affairs that they forget to manifest this sentiment.

The language of flowers is a very convincing one. The glorious colors of the natural world tell a story of the inner feeling of the heart. Practical gifts are equally appropriate. Most women deny themselves many things so that their children may have advantages and enjoyments. Many women go without modern and stylish clothes for this reason. Or they forego home improvements that would save them much work or make their dwellings more modern. Children should recognize these sacrifices. If they can make presents of practical things for the home, or of articles of personal wear and adornment, it shows fine sentiment and common sense.

Children should realize that the thing the mother wants most is to see them carry out her ideas. She represents experience of life and the wisdom of the world that has accumulated through the years. She believes that her offspring should do certain things, and refrain from actions contrary to her standards. She is often right, too, but children are apt to regard her ideas as old-fashioned and to disregard her wishes.

A gift that most women would appreciate from their children would be a stronger desire to follow maternal standards and to avoid things that her wisdom shows to be wrong. When children follow along the line marked out by their mothers, that is the thing that brings the highest happiness.

INVENTION MONTH

The first patent on this continent was granted by the Massachusetts General Court to Samuel Winslow in 1641 for a novel method of making salt. The first United States patent went to Samuel Hopkins for "Making Pot and Pearl Ashes."

The managing editor of a New York daily rebuked his city editor for featuring an article on Edison's electric light on the grounds that such a light was against the laws of nature. Conway P. Coe, the present United States Patent Commissioner, is the most sued man in the United States. Every time an inventor thinks he should be granted a patent, and is not, or when the patent is granted and someone else thinks it should not have been, a trip to the courts is necessary if an attempt is made to reverse the decision of the patent office. The defendant in all these cases is Mr. Coe.

These interesting items are gathered from a pamphlet, The Pleasures of Publishing, issued by the Columbia University Press, with reference to the publication of an enlarged special issue of The World Is Yours commemorating the 150th anniversary this month of the American patent system.

This occasion gives an opportunity to pay honor to American inventors who during the 150 year have been granted more than 2,000,000 patents. The inventor, pioneer in the field of applied science, may be credited with the greatest advance in history in the provision for the creature comforts of human being and in stimulating industry.

toward the channel ports through Holland and Belgium is gouging deep slices out of the low countries, according to indications in Berlin today.

But the German High Command weighed every word before releasing any details to frustrate the possibility that the Allies might benefit from anything revealed by the press and radio.

BERLIN, May 11—(INS)—The German Foreign Office refused today to accept Belgian and Dutch protests against the invasion of the low countries.

Authorities said the Reich government considers the protests "impudent" on grounds both the Belgian and Dutch governments violated their neutrality by secretly co-operating with the Allies.

ROME, May 11—(INS)—The Italian capital was flooded today with thousands of printed posters entitled "The Failure of England."

The posters said the "British and French show signs of disintegration" and claimed that this was "undeniable proof" of their defeat.

The newspaper Resto Del Carlino of Bologna commented:

"As the real war begins we already know the sequel. May God bless the arms and peoples fighting for bread and justice."

PARIS, May 11—(INS)—French war planes bombed several German airfields during the night, it was revealed today.

It was believed the British Air Force carried out similar attacks, but details were not forthcoming immediately.

The Germans launched an attack by one Nazi division east of the Moselle River yesterday afternoon, and French advance posts retreated to their lines of resistance, according to a pre-arranged plan, a French military spokesman revealed.

"Spoiled Girl" by LUCILLE MARSH JOHNSON

CHAPTER TWENTY-NINE

Gabrielle felt rested when she was finished at the beauty salon. She had captured her dream again, her dream of being reunited with Peter. It seemed she could always do this when she was alone. Others around, making conversation, seemed to dispel the dream, and left her feeling unsure of herself too.

She found Helen waiting in the reception room of the beauty salon when she came out.

"Darling, your hair looks beautiful," said Helen. "Let's see your nails."

Gabrielle extended slim creamy tan hands, their almond shaped nails smooth and gleaming.

"They're lovely," said Helen. Later they went to a small tearoom.

Helen said suddenly: "I'm going to miss you something dreadful, Gabrielle."

"Are you, Mother? Well, if I stay, you'll have a nice place to visit—and if I don't, well, you won't have to miss me." She laughed whimsically, a queer light in her eyes.

Helen looked across at her inquiringly.

"I was just thinking, Mother, that I feel exactly like a bride. Much more so now than I did when I married Peter."

Helen smiled: "What have a present for you, dear."

"You have! What is it?"

"I'll give it to you tonight, dear—before you pack."

"Nice. Thank you, Mother."

They reached home in time for dinner, and found Sam in the front room by the fire, smoking and reading.

"Come and help us carry in the bundles, Daddy!" called Gabrielle.

"I'll help your mother, Gaby. Long distance has been trying to get you. I guess Peter's calling—anyway it's New York."

"Oh, thank you, Daddy." A happy smile flooded her face.

As Sam went out the front door she went to the telephone.

She had to wait for some little time and, while they were checking the call, doubts began to assail her. Oh, supposing Peter said it was inconvenient for him to meet her, or to see her at all just now? Her heart pounded when she heard the local operator talking with the one in the metropolis.

When it was relayed to her that they were unable to locate their party just at this time, Gabrielle was already in the depths of despair, for she heard every word which passed between them.

They told her they would call her later.

She heard her mother saying to Violet that they were ready for dinner any time; remarking to Sam what a nice day they had had in the city; and heard Violet banging something against the stove as she took up the meal. She heard all this but she wasn't conscious of it; all she could think of consciously was that perhaps Peter didn't want her to come.

At the dinner table she talked automatically, ate the food which her father had placed upon her plate, but her ears were alert for the ring of the telephone. When Violet was serving the dessert the phone rang, long and loud.

"Excuse me, please," Gabrielle said, laying her napkin on the table and rising quickly. "That's probably for me!"

She waited impatiently after the operator announced that she had New York on the wire. Finally she heard P's voice and it sounded quite as excited as she felt.

"Gaby? When are you leaving, dear?" he asked.

Gabrielle caught and put away the "dear" for future enjoyment.

"Tomorrow, Peter. Will you meet me?"

"I'll meet you if I have to cut rehearsal," he promised. "I've a new song I've been saving, Gaby!"

"One of your own?"

"Yes; one I've been saving until you could come!"

Gabrielle was enchanted. . . .

During the time she had been at the telephone Helen and Sam had sat quietly with their dessert untouched, Gabrielle noticed, the moment she re-entered the dining room. She smiled at them, not knowing that her eyes were shining with a radiance that told of her happiness.

"Peter?" asked her mother, unnecessarily.

"Yes; and oh, Mother, he's going to meet me, and he has a new song which he's been saving until I could come!"

"Well, well," said Sam, taking up

ACTIVITIES

Mothers, Daughters Gather
For Guild Social Function

The World Wide Guild of First Baptist Church held a mother and daughter covered dish social in the lecture room of the church last evening.

The program included a hymn, "The church's one foundation"; Scripture reading, Miss Marie Barr; duet, the Misses Augusta Lindberg and Dolores Bickel; poem, Helen McGerr; solo, "Mother," Doris Stewart; poem, Mabel Heath; poem, Jean Angus; objective of the W. W. G., Mrs. Joseph Talbot; review of the work accomplished in the past year, Mrs. Howard L. Zepp; solo, "Mother Macree," Mrs. Talbot; group singing.

The tables were decorated with strips of pink crepe paper with fan shaped napkins to match. On each table there was a vase of red roses and each mother attending was given a rose. Mrs. Zepp was toastmistress and toasts were given to the "mother of yesterday" and the "modern mothers."

The menu consisted of cold cuts, potato salad, cole slaw, deviled eggs, cheese, rolls, fruit gelatine, home-made cake and punch.

Group games concluded the evening.

GRAND THEATRE

That Thomas Alva Edison, America's greatest inventor, was certainly no lump of sugar in his youth will be recalled to the public not familiar with his boyhood when "Young Tom Edison," starring Mickey Rooney as Tom, comes to the Grand Theatre Sunday.

In fact, the picture will show that the kindly Wizard of Menlo Park was Andy Hardy, Tom Sawyer and one or two of the Dead End Kids all rolled into one.

A dozen or more of Edison's outstanding boyhood pranks are perpetrated by Mickey Rooney. Each of them was achieved by Tom at one time or another in his youth, but for story purposes they have been concentrated into the span of his life with which the picture deals.

BRISTOL THEATRE

A mystery thriller full of action and suspense is Monogram's "Midnight Limited," which opened yesterday to a capacity house at the Bristol Theatre.

Packed with vivid action, heart-stirring drama and melodious musical offerings, "The Stranger From Texas" opened at the Bristol Theatre yesterday, starring Charles Starrett.

Charles Laughton in one of his rare present-day roles and Vivien Leigh in her first screen appearance since she elicited the year's rave as the Scarlett O'Hara of "Gone With the Wind" are attractions in "Sidewalks of London," which opens Sunday at the Bristol Theatre.

RITZ THEATRE

A finely mounted portrait of George Brent as Col. William J. "Wild Bill" Donovan in Warner Bros.' "The Fighting 69th," has been sent to the regimental armory in New York in response to a request from the members of the regiment.

Hanging of the portrait on the army walls will break precedent, according to Capt. John T. Prout, technical director on the picture and a member of the 69th N. Y. N. G. (the 165th Infantry of the regulars) for 10 years prior to and all during the war. The show is playing at the Ritz today.

Bensalem, As Usual, Fails To Win In A League
Game

FINAL SCORE IS 6 TO 4

Victory is Second One in A Row For The Cardinals

If the Bensalem Owls could win in league competition like they defeat non-league foes, they would now be leading their section of the Lower Bucks County League. They dropped their fourth straight loop encounter here yesterday afternoon when they were set back again by the Cardinals of Bristol High. The final score was 6-4.

The triumph marked the second in a row for the Cards and their second victory of the season over the Owls, who have yet to taste the sweetness of victory in league play and are consequently resting in the basement of the circuit. Meantime, the Cards, by winning, stepped past the idle Langhorne Redskins and into third place, and are even-up on their season's record with 3 wins and 3 defeats.

The globe. The dolls, dressed in native costume, and ranging in size from one or two inches, to one and two feet high; and varying greatly in age, have been collected over a period of years by Mrs. Balm. The title of her presentation was "Around the World in a Doll House," and Mrs. Balm's audience was much intrigued by the little visitors, who through their collector, had many tales of far-off lands to tell. The speaker was introduced by Mrs. Harry T. Neher.

Serving as toastmistress on this occasion was Mrs. Earl McEuen, with the invocation offered by Mrs. James R. Gailley. Group singing, and accordion solos, "The Boy Scout March," "Roses" and "Oh, Johnny," by Miss Janice McEuen, were enjoyed as the group was seated about the banquet tables; the balance of the program being presented in the church auditorium. The song sheets at each place were in pink tone, with a white paper carnation attached to each. Decorations for the tables were bouquets of sweet peas.

The program also included: Recitation, Miss Lillian Brownlee, of the Junior Christian Endeavor; solo, Miss Olive Johnson, of the Camp Fire Girls; recitation, "Mothers," Miss Margaret Brownlee; a song to the Mothers, and also other selections by the choir of girls, composed of the Misses Betty Beswick, Jean and Harriet Stetson, and Lynch, Olive Whyatt, and Mrs. Helen Stout, with Mrs. Marburg D. easley as accompanist; remarks, by Caroline Black, teacher of Ladies' Bible Class; recitation, Miss Betty Beswick, of the Senior Christian Endeavor; remarks, Mrs. Wilbur Alright, representing the Women's Guild; selection, "Faith of our Mothers," assemblage.

MORRISVILLE DEFEATS
NEWTOWN, SCORE, 6-5

NEWTOWN, May 11—The Newtown Indians started out fast against the Morrisville Bulldogs by counting five times in the opening stanza here yesterday afternoon. And with Al Driver tossing them in for the home forces, it looked as though the Indians would clinch their second straight league championship. They tossed the game away with four miscues afield, but chief offender was Driver himself, who hit four batters and walked two others, three of which figured prominently in the Bulldogs scoring. The score ended 6 to 5 in favor of Morrisville.

Driver limited the visitors to four hits all afternoon, but his wildness and ragged defense proved his downfall. He struck out seven.

LANDRETH CLUB OPENS
SEASON HERE TODAY

This afternoon the Landreth Baseball Club will play the Philadelphia Irish Stars at three o'clock. The game will be preceded by a drill by the American Legion Cadet Corps.

Tomorrow, Sunday, the "Seeds" will play the Defiance Club of Camden. The Defiance Club captured the championship of that city last season and are supposed to be one of the very best clubs in that neighborhood. Both these games should be good attractions.

VANGUARDS OF PACERS
ANXIOUS FOR TRIALS

LANGHORNE, May 11—Vanguards of the racing talent to compete tomorrow in the opening AAA auto races at Ralph Hankinson's Speedway were entrenched here today pleading for preliminary runs ahead of the classic. A gala card has been arranged by the veteran promoter to open the world's fastest mile speedway, the outstanding juggernaut jockeys of the nation having entered for one of the most colorful programs the old maestro of speed has presented in his 10-year tenure at Langhorne.

Starting with the time trials at noon and the first preliminary race at 2:30, eastern daylight time, Mark Light, Tony Willman, Ted Horn, Bobby Sall, Joie Chitwood and Everett Saylor will be hard pressed to defend their laurels and reputations as the "Big Six" of auto racing as more than 100 miles of speed events unroll in five qualifying heats of 10 miles each and the 50-mile feature event.

It is expected that old records will go by the boards and at least one new face will be in the limelight for the field of so-called lesser lights is seriously threatening the stellar supremacy of the veterans, Walt Brown, Joe Sudick, George Barringer, Frank McGurk, Vic Nauman, Otis Stine and Joe Budnar forming the nucleus of the dark horse class.

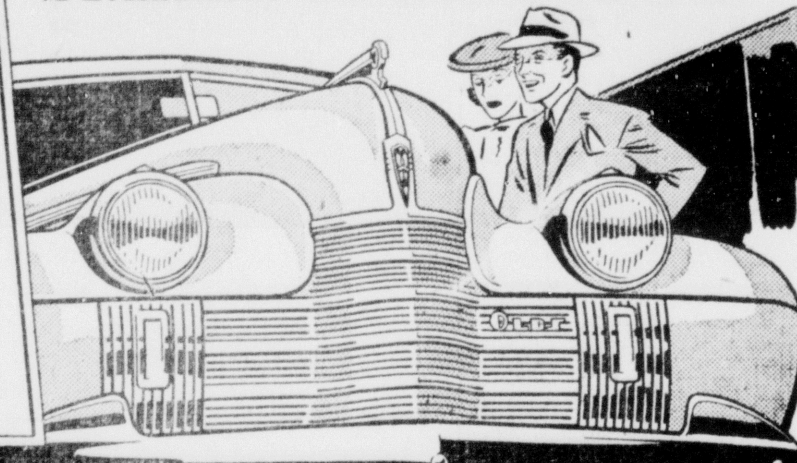

Langhorne has always been the stamping grounds for the dark horses and it was here that Wild Bill Cummings, Herman Schurch, Gus Schrader and Duke Nalon among others won their first big laurels by upsetting the dopsters.

Fans are guaranteed a complete coverage of the massive mile Bucks County bowl with the installation of a new communication system. Two-way short wave radio stations have been set up at three points along the hot highway in direct hook-up with the loud speakers and the judges stand, enabling officials to maintain constant contact with track conditions at all times. The new system also insures a complete description of the thrills no matter where they will occur along the roaring road to fame.
